A couple of weeks ago Charlie Jones and James Brown of General Telephone Company brought us some friends and a big birthday cake, and we will be forever grateful. The everyday grind of work had caused us to let our 75th birthday slip pass without the fanfare it deserved. While setting up the affair Brown and Jones had conspired with the ladies in our office but everyone had kept it from me and said if I had known it I would have been in the other side of Coffee County at the appointed time. All I knew was that the telephone people wanted to talk to me at 9:30 a.m. on the appointed day. Thinking they may have wanted to buy some advertising I was Johnny-On-The-Spot at 9:30. Thanks General Telephone Company, But now, effective today, your two weeks of "no complaints" are up and I will resume my usual grumpy self. Seriously, we did really appreciate the jesters of good will.

Here is a gem for all you cat lovers. Nelson and Dorothy Whitehurst took a motor vacation to Fort Worth , Texas, recently and . . . They drove to Vicksburg, Mississippi, to spend the first night and upon stopping at the motel their family cat hopped out from under the hood of the car. He had ridden all the way from Elba tucked up under the hood of the car. Needless to say they didn't throw the cat in the big river but gave him a seat inside the car for the balance of their vacation.

Several weeks ago when we were on vacation and eating a rather late breakfast in Tallahassee, Florida, I saw the headlines on one of the daily papers. It announced that a national labor leader had refused to endorse either of the major presidential nominees. Now it is not often that I agree with the national labor leaders on politics but in this case I agree that they really have no help from either candidate. They have long opposed Nixon and Mc-Govern and whatever their reasons were, they still exist. Therefore it may be damaging to their cause to bend their principals just to endorse a candidate. Hands off is the only creditable attitude for national labor leaders.

I am strongly in favor of conserving our environment but . . some of the "overboard tactics" employed lately are not in the interest of the general public and should be mashed like a bug. The atomic plant near Dothan has been slowed by law suits and even though these complaints have proven to be unfounded those who filed them still persist and plan appeal to higher courts. The same is true with the long awaited Tombigee waterway in the Northwest part of Alabama. It has gotten so bad nationally that the power companies are turning away from the more efficient atomic method and reverting to costly steam plants because they can't wait until the court battles are over to get the additional electricity. The news stands are beginning to sprout books on "How to Play Chess" now that the American chess champ has put the game in the headlines with his . . . well his actions. There are two sets of adjectives for him, one by fans and another by non-fans. It appears that young Bobby will win the national championship, he is now four games from it and his challenger is 6.5 from retaining title. Fishers actions are a good lesson in "How to make money by getting publicity.' If he had not pulled the stunts he is credited with lately very few of us would know a chess match was in progress and the reportedly high offers of contracts would not be flying to Bobby Fischer.

With some friends he was enjoying a wonderful summer day and beauti ful scenery. He rested on the oars of the boat, unmindful of the flowing stream. The moments of careless pleasur and conversation were few, but when he chanced to look at the distant shore he was startle to find the boat half a mile down stream, drifting rapidly under the power of the current He was completely unconsciou of what was happening. He said that the hard pull to regain all that he had lost in distance really gave him new meaning of the word "drifting" We find a lot of people go through life this way. It certainly requires n effort to just drift. The ease of it really points up the dan-ger involved and probably the cination. It is the opposite of effort. A Christian can begin to drift when he omits daily prayer, Bible reading and close daily walk with God. Mora nature goes to sleep and the effort to bring it back is to say the least, hard. The moment we begin to quit going forward, we begin to drift. As, long as the Christian rests on his oars--he is losing ground. You may think at first that it's all right to rest, but while you are resting Satan is busily at Drifting is characterized not only by little effort but it is a fast and fatal process. On the surface the drifter doesn't realize that he is moving rapidly to an unhappy ending. A short relapse of one's spiritual life often causes unrecoverable loss. The most striking bib lical passage on drifting is found in Hebrews 2:1, "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things that were heard, lest haply we drift away. from them". Neglience means ruin. Doing nothing shuts one away from God as surely as doing wrong. Neglect of Christ is criminal. He who allows himself to be swept along by wordly influence, unchristian companionships, love of ease or pleasure is as utterly lost as any wayward prodigal. No, it isn't easy to row the boat of God's love. The winds blow and the storms roar but somehow gives strength and courage to those who have their eves upon Him. industry representatives and professional forestors from hroughout Alabama met in Montgomery Wednesday to dis-cuss the State's current Southern pine beetle crisis. Forestry Commission Ranger Drewery estimated that 200 people attended the meeting and heard State Forester Bill Moody say that the beetles have already destroyed the equivalent of 30 thousand homes with several months left in their active season. Moody has called this emergency meeting, Ranger Drewery said, to make andowners and the forest industry aware of the seriousness of the pine beetle epidemic and to discuss ways of controlling the insect. Appearing at the meeting were several members of the State Forester's staff and a counties in the State of Alabama Division, those of the Probate Office are probably more tedious than those of other areas of the Courthouse.

The jurisdiction of the Probate Court encompasses much more than the average citizen would normally believe. The total land area covered by the Elba Court Division is approximately 395 square miles as compared to about 275 square miles covered by the Enterprise Court Division.

The Probate Judge is re sponsible for recording mortgages, deeds, financing statements, bills of sale, judgments, bonds, marriages, probate dockets and assignments of mortgages.

Probate Judge James L. Sawyer presides over legal matters which come under the jurisdiction of the Probate Court. Some examples are: Probate Wills - these are not recorded until after a person's death. Under Probate Wills comes "Grants of Letters," which refer to: Letters Testamentary - this is a formal letter giving a designated person authority to do with the decedent's estate according to the wishes of the Will.

Letters of Administration This is granted to a designated person if no Will has beer written by the decedent, so that the appointed person may administer the estate in order that it will be distributed equally among the heirs. Letters of Guardianship - These letters refer to minors and the insane and are usually filed by a lawyer who submits a petition to Probate Court. There, some person, usually a relative, assumes the responsibility for the person's legal matters. He must keep an account of the amount of money coming to the individual and the amount spent and report to Probate Court every three years.
